PREFACE.

First Edition 1877.

“ Few families in the country have been more celebrated than the Cushings, and probably no other has furnished more Judges for our Probate, Municipal, and Supreme Courts. In all its branches it has been highly respectable, and it still maintains its ancient standing.”— History of Hanover, Mass, by J. S. Barry, Boston, 1853. High praise, but by no means undeserved, as the merest glance down the “ bead roll of fame,” as imperfectly transcribed in this work, will convince the most sceptical. The Genealogy of the Cushing Family forms of itself almost a synopsis of the colonizing and early settlement of the New England States and a portion at least of the Province of Quebec, and by that best and purest of its stock, the Puritans. Here we read, as in a history, the mode of settlement ; the organization of local and general offices for the proper and regular administration, civil and military, of the affairs of the colonies ; the origin of the causes which led to the memorable struggle for Independence of the British Colonies in America ; the difficulties to be contended with in the re-organization of the affairs of the young nation, its laws and government. In the halls of the Legislature, in the administration of the laws, in the arena of commerce and in all the religious controversies of the times in which they lived, the members of this remarkable family appear almost pre-eminent.

The scrupulous accuracy with which the Pilgrim Fathers recorded the births and marriages of the colonists makes it a matter of no great difficulty in tracing the descendants of the early settlers down to at least the middle of the eighteenth century ; and from the exceptionally prominent part taken in all public matters by members of this family, their descent can be traced by nearly if not all of the name to the present day. The work now set forth is, for ought the author knows, the first issued with any pretensions to a general genealogical record. It is necessarily incomplete in many of its details, and many precious fragments remain in his hands, for lack of the necessary links to connect them with the rest of the chain.

LEMUEL CUSHING.

Present Edition 1905.

After the publication of the first edition Mr. Lemuel Cushing collected considerable material, intending to issue a more complete record, but at the time of his death, in 1881, the work was still unfinished.

In 1901, in response to requests from various members of the family, it was decided to complete the task, and the present volume is the result of the succeeding four years' work.

While much additional information has been gathered and the history of the family greatly extended, it must be admitted that the record is still in a measure incomplete. This is due partly to the fact of the family being now scattered all over the United States and Canada, and partly because the work had to be done almost altogether by correspondence, the writer not having the necessary time and means to personally visit the various family centres.

The scheme adopted is that which is in use by the New England Historical and Genealogical Society. The figure which precedes the name of the head of a family refers back to the family of the immediate ancestor, where the same person is designated in the list of children by the same number at the left of the Roman numeral. The Christian names and figures which are given in parenthesis after the head of a family denote the ancestral line and generation in consecutive order.

The record is given in the appendix of several unconnected branches of the family. Most of these are of families who have come to America during the past century, and who, while not immediately connected with the great American branch, doubtless sprang originally from the same stock.

Prior to 1752 the year began on the 25th of March. In this year a change was made to the present system of reckoning the year from the 1st of January. Consequently in records of events happening prior to 1752 the "Old Style" has been used; in the present volume all dates have been given according to the "New Style," and changes have been made in the dates taken from the records, wherever necessary to make them conform to the "New Style," e. g. the date of Matthew Cushing's (No. 8) baptism is given in the church records as 2 March, 1588, and this is corrected to 2 March, 1589.

The authorities and sources of information utilized in compiling the book have been so numerous that it is impossible to give them in detail. In brief, all the local histories of New England and American genealogies in the Boston Public Library, the Cambridge Library, and the Library of the New England Historical and Genealogical Society of Boston, have been reviewed and most of them have afforded various facts and details. Special mention may, however, be made of the History of Hingham, 1893, the Buckingham Genealogy 1892 and the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, as furnishing much valuable information. Besides these sources of information the town and church records of Hingham, Scituate, Rehoboth, Pembroke, Hull and many other places were also examined. The more recent history of the family has been furnished by many persons in the United States and Canada. As members of nearly all the branches given in this book have contributed information in regard to their own line, they cannot be mentioned by name. Among those who have rendered valuable assistance outside of their own line, the special thanks of the author are due to Mr. Charles C. Cushing (who kindly made many researches in the Boston Libraries), Mrs. David Cushing of Hingham, Mass., Miss J. Mac C. Shaw of Boston, Tappan Adney, Esq. of New York City, Miss. C. E. Campbell of Schenectady, N.Y. and Arthur B. Paine, Esq. of Brookline, Mass.

INTRODUCTION.

The Name "Cushing."

The derivation of the name is somewhat uncertain. The present form is used by all the American descendants of Matthew Cushing who came to America in 1638, and was probably the established orthography for several generations before this, as the English and Irish branches use the same spelling. Before the sixteenth century, however, like most proper names, it was most variously written. For example, in various deeds, wills and charters still extant in Norfolk, Eng., referring to the direct lineal ancestors of Matthew, we find Cushyng, Cushin, Cushyn, Cusshyn, Cusshyn, Cusseyn, Cussyn, Cusyn, and Cosyn. Before the fourteenth century it was spelled Cusyn, Cosyn, or Cosseyn; after this it is always spelt with a u and generally sh, e. g., Cussheyn, Cusshyn. The final g does not appear until 1500, when we find Cushyng, though Cushyn and Cushin are still frequent spellings.

The theories advanced by certain authorities that the name is a corruption of MacOssian or MacAsswain, or that it is derived from the word 'Cush' with the suffix 'ing' (son of) may be mentioned as pure guess-work, altogether discredited by the above facts. There is no evidence that the name is Irish as some have asserted; the Cushings of Ireland appear to have gone there in Cromwell's time.

The late Mr. Frank Hamilton Cushing, to whose researches we are indebted for much of our knowledge of the earlier history of the Cushings, makes two suggestions:—1st, that the name is derived from the Anglo-Norman designation of Cousin (Cosseyn or Cusseyn); or, 2nd, that it arose from usage in connection with the land title of Cossey. Thus, in the 'Domesday' of William the Conqueror, we find that "the ancient village and manor of Tokethorpe (later Flockthorpe) lying in the Forehoe hundred" was in several parts, "two of which belonged to Cossey." This same manor of Flockthorpe was possessed by the Cushings for several generations thereafter.

The Cushing Arms.

The Cushings of Norfolk, Eng., were entitled to bear arms for many successive generations through their holding the manors of Chosely, Hardingham, etc. During this time of course the arms were repeatedly 'differenced' by different branches. Therefore the attempt to ascertain the exact coat-of-arms borne by the branch which came to America is accompanied by some difficulty, and several arms differing slightly in certain details have been used and published by different authorities.

The original arms of the Cushing family were undoubtedly "gules an eagle displayed argent" (Fig. 1). These were the arms of Roger Cossyn, William Cusseyn and others until John (No. 4). From this all the others have been derived. Later, by a marriage with an heiress, the arms were quartered. So far, it has been impossible to identify the family from which this quartering was derived. The marriage probably occurred some time about 1500. In the Heraldic Visitation of the County of Norfolk, England, made in the year 1563, in which the marriage is given of John Oldham, Shimpling, of Norfolk, with Elizabeth, daughter and heir of Francis Cushin (page 19) of Hingham, Norfolk, the Cushing arms are described as follows:—"Gules, an eagle displayed argent; quartering, gules, three right hands torn from the wrists, a canton chequery or and az." Based on this description, which is obviously slightly indefinite as regards the position of the hands, we have the following forms:—

First, that given as a frontispiece to this volume and considered by the writer as most authoritative. This is the form advocated by the late H. G. Somerby of England as the result of several years' research in the records and deeds of Norfolk County, and it is quoted in the Register of the New England Historical and Genealogical Society.

As to the position of the hand behind the canton, when not otherwise expressly specified three hands would be placed two in chief and one in base, and a canton used to be placed on a shield without altering in the least the arrangement of the original emblem.

acknowledged that it was inaccurate. The cut is quoted here because through the last edition it has been given wide circulation.

Fig. 3.

Second, the shield used in the first edition of this work. (Fig. 2) For this arrangement we can find no authority and are forced to the conclusion that the position of the hands and the coloring of half the shield argent are due to the artist's ideas only. In fact, the late Lemuel Cushing

Third, the arms found on the tombstone of Lt.-Gov. Thomas Cushing, in the Granary Burying Ground, Boston, Mass., dated 1788 (Fig. 3). These are also the arms in the "Gore Roll of Arms" (Heraldic Journal, Vol. I, 1865), They are especially worthy of note as being the earliest arms of which we have any record as being borne by an American Cushing. Unfortunately, no authority can be found for the omission of the third hand, and it is almost certain that the carving was made from a too hasty description ; the third hand, which is partly covered by the canton, being accidentally omitted.

Fourth, the Herald's College, London, Eng. was applied to for the correct Cushing arms, and they furnished the accompanying shield (Fig. 4), quoting as their authority the above mentioned Heraldic Visitation. The Government Office of Heraldry, London, is responsible for the following statement :—

“No crest is found for the family but the quartering is that of Dennier, an heiress of which family must have married into that of Cushing ; Cushing, gules an eagle displayed argent ; Dennier, gules three dexter hands coupéd or, in bend sinister, a canton compony of 8 az. and or.

Fifth, the arms used by several American branches of the family for several generations (Fig 5). These are the ones recognized in Matthew's American Armoury and Blue Book and in Crozier's General Armoury 1904. As noted above, there is no authoritative record of the position of the hands in the quartering, so this arrangement may be justifiable. We can only remark that the oldest carvings or deeds always shew the hands bendwise and not erect.

These differences that have been quoted must not be considered as throwing any doubt on the authenticity of the Cushing Arms. This has been acknowledged by every authority on heraldry, the direct descent from the Cushings of Norfolk whose arms are recognized in Heraldic Visitations is enough to establish their right. The slight variations are due to the original inaccurate descriptions which permit of variation according to the artist's ideas.

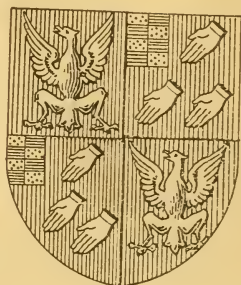

Fig. 4.

These of course are not hereditary and may be assumed by all who consider themselves entitled to legally bear arms.

The only crest widely used by the Cushings is that in the frontispiece, which may be described as follows:—“Two lions' gambes erased sable supporting a ducal coronet or, from which hangs a human heart gules.” This is the one found on the Granary Burying Ground tablet.

The motto “Virtute et numine” (by valor and divine aid) has also been in general use.

GENEALOGY

EARLY ANCESTRY

The remote ancestry of the Cushing family has been the subject of a number of investigations which have succeeded in tracing the family to very early times. The first work of importance was undertaken by the Hon. Caleb Cushing. He traced the family to Norfolk Co., Eng., and finding himself unable to give the necessary time to the research, engaged the late H. G. Somerby of London, a well known genealogist, to continue it. Mr. Somerby entered on the task with enthusiasm, as evidenced by his letters, some of which are in the writer's possession. During the years 1851-1853 he examined the ancient manuscripts in the British Museum, the Subsidy Rolls and Heraldic Visitations for Norfolk, the parish registers and ancient deeds and wills connected with various estates and manors in Hardingham, Hingham, and other places. His efforts were crowned with unexpected success; he established the fact that the Cushings were one of the leading families in Norfolk County during the 15th and 16th centuries, being lords of numerous manors, and he published his results in several important papers before historical and genealogical societies in Great Britain.

The late Mr. Lemuel Cushing, having received the papers and correspondence relating to the subject from the Hon. Caleb Cushing, continued the work, adding many details, and published the whole in the first edition of the Genealogy of the Cushing Family in 1877. In this work he traces the family back to Thomas Cushing of Hardingham, Norfolk Co., who lived in the early part of the 15th century.

After Mr. Lemuel Cushing's death, Mr. Frank Hamilton Cushing continued the investigation, assisted by various recent publications on the early history of Norfolk County, and obtained valuable evidence of the descent of the Cushings from the DeLimisi family who owned numerous manors in Norfolk County in the 11th and 12th centuries. His early decease interrupted the work, but, through the kindness of his widow, the papers containing the results of his work were submitted to the present writer. As one or two links of the chain are still missing, it was thought best to publish Mr. Frank Hamilton Cushing's manuscript verbatim, in the hope that at some future time the work may be completed, and to commence the genealogy of the family at a point from which the actual descent from father to son rests on direct documentary evidence.

Mr. Cushing's manuscript is as follows :

“ In the Scandinavian Sagas relating to the latter half of the Eighth Century—750-800, A.D.—which may be regarded as the period in which reliable Norse History begins, frequent mention may be found of the Viking Hrolf Nefja Jarl and his ancestors in Thron djem and the Maeras of Norway ; and in later centuries, of his descendants in Normandy and England as well.

According to these Sagas, and the earliest Norman accounts, Hrolf Nefja, (1), had at least one son Malahjule, (2); and a daughter, Hild or Ragnhild. The daughter married Rognvald Maera-Jarl, who, in return for assistance rendered by him to Harald (or Harold) Fair Hair, in the conquest of Norway, was made chief ruler over not only the two Maeras, but also Ramsdal. They had three sons and a daughter. The second son, Gongu Hrolf (Walking Rolt), became early a great Viking leader, especially in the East. Returning from one of his expeditions soon after Harald's conquest, he committed acts of depredation in Vikin. King Harald, who was then in Vikin, was very angry when he heard of this, for he had strictly forbidden robbery within his land. He therefore announced at a Thing that he made Hrolf an outlaw from Norway. When Hrolf's mother Hild heard this she went on behalf of her family to the King to ask for pardon for Hrolf; but the King was so angry that her prayers were of no avail. Hence Hrolf, accompanied by his uncle Malahjulc, as Councillor, and a numerous following of disaffected Hersirs sailed for the Hebrides; whence they made conquests, ultimately gaining from Valland (now France), about 912 A. D., the great Jarls' realm, known soon after as Normandi.

Thus Hrolf, so well known in later history as Rollo, became the founder and first Earl or Duke of Normandy, establishing, according to nearness of kin with his own and the families of his chief leaders, the great Ruda-jarls (or feudal nobility of Ruen), ancestors of the Sovereign families and Norman Barons of Normandy and England alike, in later centuries.

In this manner Malahjulc became possessed of Toesini and Conches; and is referred to in old records as Malahulcinus de Tœsini (or Tœdini). He had issue Hugo de Tœsini, (3), who became lord of Cavalcamp in Nuestria, and had two sons, Ralf (4), and Hugo, Archbishop of Rouen, 942-980. Hugo gave to his brother Ralf the estates of Tœsini, which descended therefore to his son Ralph (5) or Ranulf of Apulia, celebrated for his conquests of the latter and other places; and so, to Ralf (6) his son, who was appointed Castellan of Tillieres jointly with Nigel, Viscount of Coutances, in 1011. Ralf had issue, Roger de Tœsini, surnamed D'Espagne, on account of his prowess against the Saracens in Spain, progenitor of the DeTœsinis, Hereditary Standard-bearers of Normandy, Barons of Toesini and Conches, and of Stafford and Belvoir in England, ancestors of the English houses of Cholmondeley, Egerton, Grisley and others, and Hugh de Tæsini (7), (Brother of Roger de Espagne), surnamed de Limesi (Limesay) from his Norman Seigneurie. He was living in 1060. He had several sons who accompanied the Conqueror (to whom they were related as nephews through their mother who was William the Conqueror's half-sister) ; among them were Ralf (8) and Baldrick, progenitor of Scottish Lindsays. William gave to Ralf the barony of Oxburg, or Oxenburg in Norfolk, and 41 other manors in several counties with the lands of Christina one of the sisters of Prince Edgar, whom Ralf married.

They had Ralf (9) who married Hadewise and had Alan (10), whose son Gerard (11) married Amy, (daughter of Trian de Hornelade of Bidun Limisi), whose son John married Alice, daughter of Robert of Harcourt, died in 1198 and left a son, Hugh, who is said to have died without issue some time after 1223. Through John's sister (and co-heir) part of the barony passed by marriage with David de Limisey to the Lindsays, or Lindseys of Scotland.

Ralf (12) surnamed Le Cusyn or Le Cosyn de Limisi, is said to have been a younger son of Gerard, brother of John de Limisi, since he is found holding Choseley in the land party of England about this time, and since his arms, with merely a change of tincture, were the same as those of the de Limisis. From him were Roger (13) and Richard Cosyn, from one of whom (probably the former) Galfridus Cusyn was descended.

Galfridus, Gerard or Geoffrey Cusyn (14) was born in Norfolk county, England, in the latter part of the thirteenth century. He possessed estates in Hardingham, Norfolk County, for which in 1327 he was assessed to the King's subsidies, Edward First."

He was either the son or grandson of the Galfridus Cusyn of Hardingham, Norfolk Co., Eng., who is mentioned in the Subsidy Rolls for Norfolk in 1327. He added to the original estate in Hardingham the estates in Hingham which were inherited by his son Thomas.

2. THOMAS CUSHING. (Cussheyn or Cusshyn), son of William Cushing, was born in Hardingham, Norfolk County, Eng., in the latter part of the reign of Richard II, 1377-1399. 8. MATTHEW <sup>1</sup> CUSHING, son of Peter and Susan (Hawes) Cushing, was baptized in Hardingham, Eng., 2 March, 1589. He married, 5 August, 1613, Nazareth, daughter of Henry Pitcher, of the famous family of Admiral Pitcher of England. She was baptized 30 Oct., 1586, and died in Hingham, Mass., 6 Jan., 1682. Matthew Cushing died 30 Sept., 1660. For the first fifty years of his life he lived in Hardingham and Hingham, Norfolk County, Eng., until 1638, when with his wife and five children, and his wife's sister (Widow Francis Riecroft, who died a few weeks after their arrival) he embarked in the ship "Diligent" of Ipswich, 350 tons, John Martin, master, which sailed from Gravesend, 26 April, 1638, with 133 passengers, among whom was Robert Peck, M. A., Rector of the parish of Hingham, Eng. The immediate occasion of their departure seems to have been trouble in ecclesiastical matters. Their rector, doubtless with the sympathy and aid of most of those constituting the emigrating party, had pulled down the rails of chancel and altar, and levelled the latter a foot below the church, as it remains to this day. Being prosecuted by Bishop Wren, he left the Kingdom, together with his friends—who sold their estates at half their real value. The party, having landed at Boston, Mass., 10 Aug., 1638, immediately proceeded to their destination, Hingham, Mass., so named after the name of the former home of the Cushing family in England. At a town meeting held 1638, a house lot of five acres, first below Pear Tree Hill, on Bachelor (Main) St., was given to Matthew Cushing, and it continued in the possession of the family until 1887. He was early engaged in the public affairs of the town, became a deacon in Rev. Hobart's church, and was the progenitor of many eminent descendants. It is now a pretty well established fact that, with the exception of a few families who have come to this country during the past century, all the persons bearing the surname of Cushing in the United States and Canada are his direct lineal descendants. His will, which was a verbal one, was written after his decease by his children, who, under date of 15 Nov., 1660, pray that Daniel Cushing, Esq., their oldest brother, may be appointed administrator of their father's estate. (For his will see the appendix.)

He left a full and minute will, dated 11 Sept., 1693, a copy of which may be found in the N. E. Hist. & Gen. Register, vol. XIV., p. 293. A lot of land was granted to him by the Town of Hingham in 1665. He became a freeman in 1671, was an active magistrate and for many years Town Clerk of Hingham, and by the faithful discharge of the duties of this last office rendered invaluable service to the modern antiquary. From 1682, and for many years he kept a country store. Selectman in 1665, and for many years after. In the years 1680, 1682 and 1695, he was delegate to the General Court.

Her father was third town clerk of Hingham, Mass. She was baptized in Hingham, 1 Aug., 1641, and died in Scituate, Mass., 9 March, 1679. John Cushing died in Scituate 31 March, 1708. Coming out from England in 1638, he appears to have remained in Hingham, Mass., until after his father's death in 1660. In 1657 he, together with Matthias Briggs, purchased for £120 the Varsall Estate at "Belle House Neck", Scituate, which consisted of 120 acres with house and barns. He did not move there, however, until about 1662. The land on which the farm was situated was always known as "Belle House Neck", a name given to the place in consequence of a bell that hung at the house there, for a century, to give an alarm to the neighboring country in case of the approach of Indians. In 1663 he was surveyor of highways and in 1667, receiver of excises. He was deputy to the colony in 1674, and was often re-elected. In 1673, he was on the committee for dividing Scituate lands; and in 1676, was chosen to report to the Government a statement of all services of the soldiers of Scituate in the war with King Philip. Selectman from 1674 to 1686 inclusive, and County Magistrate (Plymouth Co.) 1685 to 1692. Assistant of the Old Colony Government of Plymouth Colony 1689 to 1691, and representative to the General Court at Boston in 1692 (the first year after the two colonies, Plymouth and Massachusetts, were united), and for several succeeding years, Member of the Council 1706 and 1707. “He came to Ashburnham three years after the incorporation of the town while everything was wild and new.—58 families dwelt in it. For seven years his salary was $200 per annum, and thereafter to the end of his life $222.22. Besides this he had a settlement of $444.44 to enable him to purchase a farm, erect buildings, etc. He loved music and was himself a good singer. He was dignified in manner yet social with all. He was a man of large stature and frame. In his last years with his flowing white locks and faded worn features his appearance was truly venerable. He was much beloved by the good people of the town, and his life was so irreproachable that he had the true respect of all. His influence being that of a gentle, exemplary, and faithful teacher and friend was unchallenged, and extending through so many years had an almost unconscious moulding power, which has been very great upon the town."

129. WILLIAM<sup>5</sup> CUSHING (John<sup>4-3-2</sup> Matthew<sup>1</sup>) was born 1 March, 1732. He married in Middletown, Conn., 11 Oct., 1774, Hannah, daughter of George and Esther Phillips, and grand daughter of George and Hannah Phillips. She was born 31 July, 1754. He died 13 Sept., 1810, leaving no descendants. Graduated from Harvard College in 1751, A. M. Yale 1753, L. L. D., 1785. He was Preceptor of the public Grammar School in Roxbury in 1752, and studied law under J. Gridley. In 1755, he commenced practice in Pownalboro', which then comprehended the towns of Dresden and Wiscassett, residing with his brother Charles, and continued his practice there until elevated to the Bench. Of all the Judges and Officers of the Courts in the three counties and of the County Officers he was the solitary lawyer, he stood alone as an educated lawyer in this spacious territory and the first who settled in Maine. He was one of the six lawyers in Maine who were raised to the degree of Barrister. He was for a time Attorney General of Mass. ; in 1768, was appointed the first Judge of Probate in Lincoln County and in 1772 made Judge of the Superior Court. At the re-organization of the Superior Court, Mass., 1777, he was appointed Chief Justice of the Court, the first who held the office under the free Government of the Commonwealth and labored with great success in establishing the judicial system on a firm basis. He became Judge of the Supreme Judicial Court, 1782. At the beginning of the Revolution, he alone among the high in office supported the rights of the Revolutionists. He was Vice-President of the Mass. Convention which ratified the U. S. Constitution in 1788. He was the first Chief Justice of the State under this Constitution, and at the organization of the U. S. Government in 1789 he was selected by Washington as an Associate Justice of the U. S. Supreme Court, in which office he eminently shone. While Associate Judge, he was accompanied in his circuit by Mrs. Cushing ; he drove a phaeton and a pair of horses and was followed by his negro man "Prince" on horseback. During the mission of Chief Justice John Jay, Envoy Extraordinary to the Court of Great Britain, negotiating the famous treaty with that Country, Judge Cushing presided, and as Senior Justice administered the oath of office to Washington at the beginning of his second term as President, 4 March, 1793. In 1794 he was a candidate for Governor of Mass., a rival of Samuel Adams. John Adams said of him: "I shall be happier if Cushing succeeds, and the State will be more prudently conducted." In 1796, after Judge Jay's resignation, he was nominated by Washington to the Chief Justice office, and this offer was unanimously confirmed by the Senate, 27 Jan., 1796, and on the evening of the same day was invited to a large dinner party at the President's. As he entered the room, Washington from the head of the table turned to him and said with great impressiveness: "The Chief Justice of the United States will please take his seat on my right." It is said that this was the first intimation that Cushing had of his selection. Nothing but a confidence in his ability and in his unshaken integrity could have united contending parties on that occasion; but notwithstanding this extraordinary expression of confidence, he declined the office on account of infirm health, but continued on the bench until 1810, when he had prepared an instrument of resignation, but was called to resign life. He was a man of tall and dignified presence, and as he moved along the streets with his cocked hat, bush wig and small clothes, he made an imposing appearance which attracted general attention. He was the last Chief Justice who wore the large wig of the English Judges. As a Judge he was eminently qualified by his learning and not less by his unshaken integrity and deliberate temper. It is said of him in 1801, that he performed the duties of his high office with order and perspicuity and guided the bar with mild, though commanding dignity. In private life he was all that was amiable, always ready to instruct by useful discourse and to make his friends happy with his cheerfulness. He diligently collected works of taste and (if we may judge by the numerous notes written with his own hand in margins) he read with the greatest care. He was a founder and member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. He was a learned theologian, well acquainted with the controversies of the day, and though far from gathering heat in those controversies, was conspicuously on the side of liberal Christianity. As an exemplary Christian, he was irreproachable, and as a public character, he is universally acknowledged to have stood in the first rank of his countrymen.

A massive granite boulder marks the spot of his burial on "Belle House Neck" in Scituate.

The pastel miniatures of which the two accompanying portraits are copies were made at General Washington's request by James Sharpless when in Philadelphia in 1796, together with two portraits of General Washington and John Adams, all four of which were presented to Madam Cushing when finished. This portrait of Chief Justice William Cushing corresponds perfectly with the description which Mr. Deane wrote of him in History of Scituate. Mr. Sharpless, when in America, made a number of portraits of distinguished people. These are still valued for their character and truth.

130. CHARLES<sup>5</sup> CUSHING (John<sup>4-3-2</sup> Matthew<sup>1</sup>) was born in Scituate, Mass., 13 Aug., 1734. He married, 25 Aug., 1768, Elizabeth, sister of Governor Increase Sumner. She was born 14 June, 1743, and died 31 May, 1817. He died 7 Nov., 1810. Graduated from Harvard College in 1755. He was educated as a lawyer, and appointed first Sheriff of Lincoln Co., which office he held both before and during the Revolution, and also for many years after. He resided at Pownalboro' and in 1776, when the Maine Militia was reorganized, was appointed to command the Eastern Regiment, with the title of Colonel. In January 1777, he was made Brigadier for Lincoln Co. He made himself especially obnoxious to the loyalists by his vigilance in the discharge of his duties as sheriff and military officer, and towards the close of the war, in 1781, he (then a Brigadier General) was seized at night by a loyalist party under John Jones, a violent Tory, taken from his bed, compelled to hurry on his clothes and was carried away to the British army at Castine, where he was retained for some time as a prisoner. His functions as Sheriff and Brigadier General seem to have ceased soon after this time when he removed to Boston and he next appears as Clerk of the Courts in Suffolk and Nantucket Counties in 1783, which office he held to his death, in 1810. The fact of his occupying responsible public stations from the age of 26 to his death continuously both under the royal and republican governments, a period of 50 years, is sufficient proof of his ability, faithfulness and integrity. He was a gentleman worthy of his distinguished ancestors.

Representative from 1773 to 1775, and in 1778 and 1779 ; also Town Clerk from 1774 and 1778.

"He was one of the most valuable citizens of the Town in his day, distinguished for his unbending integrity and affable deportment : held an honorable rank in the Conventions of the County and Congresses of the Province." In the Records of Hanover, we read that "Capt. Joseph Cushing was among the representatives from Hanover to the great meeting held 26 Sept., 1774, at Plympton, of delegates from every town in Plymouth Co." At this Congress, Nathan and Joseph Cushing were of a committee to draft resolutions and remonstrances against the encroachments of the Parliament and King, which resolutions were unanimously adopted; and on the Journals of the three first Provincial Congresses, held in Salem, Concord, Cambridge and Watertown, in 1774-75, there is mentioned as a delegate, a "Col. Cushing" who took an active and prominent part in all the proceedings. A "Joseph Cushing" was on the Committee of Correspondence and Safety, of Hanover, for 1776-7 and 1779. Sept. 17, 1776, Col. Joseph Cushing with a body of Mass. Militia reinforced the Rhode Island Regiment at that place (R. I.), (Arnold's History of Rhode Island). In 1777, there was a regiment styled "Col. Cushing's Regiment" which arrived at Bennington soon after the battle at that place, and one company at least, reached Bennis Heights on the day of the battle. All these references are doubtless connected with this Joseph. At a still later period when peace had been declared and order restored he was appointed Judge of Probate for the County of Plymouth, as a token of gratitude and esteem for his services. He was Capt. of the 1st Mass. Regiment and Sub-Inspector to the 1st Mass. Brigade for the years 1781-2, and held the rank of Brigadier General.

In July, 1755, he was appointed Adjutant of the 3rd Regiment in Suffolk County; in June, 1763, Major, and in 1772, Lieut.-Colonel. He was a Major-General in the army of the Revolution, and after the campaign of 1777, commanded the right wing of General Gates' Army; was in the battles of Charlestown, S. C., Yorktown, Va., etc., and 8 Oct., 1777, was badly wounded in his leg. He was chosen Secretary of War in 1781, and in 1787 was elected Lieut.-Governor of Massachusetts. On behalf of the U. S. Government he was sent in 1789, to treat with the Southern Indians; and later was in command of the forces sent to suppress the Western Insurrection (Shay's Rebellion). From 1789 to March, 1809, he was collector of the Port of Boston. He was also President of the Society of the Cincinnati. At his funeral his pall was borne by the Hon. John Adams, Hon. R. T. 143. THOMAS <sup>5</sup> CUSHING (Thomas <sup>4</sup> John <sup>3-2</sup> Matthew<sup>1</sup>) was born in Boston, Mass., 24 March, 1725. He married, 1 Oct., 1747, Deborah Fletcher, who died 1790, æ. 63. He died 28 Feb., 1788. Graduated from Harvard College in 1744; A. M.; L. L. D. 1785; also Yale 1750. Fellow of the American Academy.

Representative to the General Court in 1761, re-elected in 1762 and up to 1769 inclusive; was elected Speaker of the General Court, 26 May, 1768, and was Speaker of the House of Representatives from 1766 to 1774 inclusive, and rose to higher honors in the State than either his father or grandfather. On 18 Dec., 1765, he was appointed with others a committee to sign and present a Memorial to the Governor in Council, protesting against the shutting up of the Courts of Law and other infringements upon the liberties of the people. He was friend and co-worker in the patriot cause with Adams, Otis, and Warren. When Otis who had been chosen Speaker was negatived by the government (in 1764) he was elected in his place, filling it until 1774, when he was a member of the Provincial Congress, and of the Congress which met at Philadelphia. On his return he was elected to the Council; was Commissary-general from 1775 to 1779, (see interesting letter from him to John Hancock, dated 3 May, 1776, to be found in Historical Magazine, Boston, 1860, p. 345); Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, and of Probate, in Suffolk Co., in 1777; declined a seat in the Continental Congress, in 1779, and was Lieut.-Governor of Mass. under Hancock and Bowdoin, from 1779 until his death, and Acting-Governor in 1785. His signature being affixed to all public papers, as Speaker of the House, caused him to be regarded in Great Britain as the leader of the Whigs in this country. In Dr. Johnson's pamphlet "Taxation no Tyranny", one object of the Americans is said to be "to adorn the brows of Mr. Cushing with a diadem." He was the devoted friend and counsellor of Hancock, and the friend and correspondent of Franklin, from whom he received the letters of Hutchison and others, that produced so great effect at that time. He was Commissioner of the Society in London for Propagating the Gospel in New England, and one of the founders of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. "He was moderate and conciliatory in character, his good sense and sound judgment, the urbanity of his manners, his universal good character, his numerous friends and connections, and his continual intercourse with all sorts of people, added to his constant attachment to the liberties of his country gave him great and salutary influence from the beginning, in 1760." Drake's Dict. Amer. Biog.

"He was from youth a professor of religion, the motives of the gospel governed him through life, and at the hour of his departure from the world its sublime doctrines and its promises gave him support ***. He was charitable to the poor and amiable in all the relations of life. His days were passed in constant exertion for the public good." Funeral Sermon.

He was buried in the Granary Burying Ground, Boston, where a mural tablet was erected with the Cushing Coat of Arms on it. (See p. 10.)

His father had owned a large real estate but disposed of it during the Revolution, (a family legend says in order to have funds to equip a regiment), receiving his pay in Continental money, the depreciation of which reduced him to poverty. In 1799 he superintended the building at Presque Island, near Erie,

JUDGE ZATTU CUSHING

Pa., of the ship "Good Intent", the first ever built on Lake Erie. From 1792-1805, he lived in Paris, Oneida Co., N.Y., whence he removed to Fredonia, Chatauqua Co., N.Y., where he accumulated a large landed property. He there commenced a nursery and set out the oldest orchard in the county and also planted pits for peach trees and the third year after had plenty of that fruit. He was a Baptist and instrumental in organizing and establishing, in 1808, one of the first churches of that denomination in the County. He was appointed in 1808 an Associate Judge of the newly formed county of Chatauqua, which for three years was united with the adjoining counties of Niagara and Erie, the Court meeting at Buffalo. The first Court of Common Pleas and General Sessions of the Peace in the new County of Niagara was held by Judge Zattu Cushing in June, 1808, in Landlord's Tavern, Buffalo (or New Amsterdam), and was held there until the Court House and Jail were erected. He was the leading member of the Court and in 1811, when the organization of Chatauqua Co. was completed, he was appointed first Judge of it. In 1822, he retired from the Bench with the reputation of an upright, dignified, clear-headed Judge. His intuitive perception of justice and his strong common-sense had well supplied the place of extended legal learning.

In person he was tall and commanding. He was from his youth a zealous active Christian, an earnest, energetic speaker, and eminently benevolent to the poor and needy. His portrait is suspended in the Chatauqua Co. Court House in Mayville, the County seat.

Other families settled eight miles nearer the seaboard, and then they had neighbors quite near, and were so happy in their rough life. Although then (1823) but sixteen years old he opened a store and commenced business for himself with a very small capital. He underwent many severe trials, but possessed of indomitable energy and perseverance and a vigorous constitution he successfully overcame them all and attained to considerable wealth and prominence. He acted as Justice of the Peace and magistrate for over forty years, and for many years filled successively the offices of Councillor and Mayor of the Township and Warden of the County. On the breaking out of the Canadian Rebellion in 1837, he armed a company of volunteers in defence of the British Flag and marched with them to St. Eustache and was instrumental in preventing much pillage and the destruction of the Registry office of St. Benoit, in which were deposited many valuable papers. At the early age of fourteen, he left home to begin his business life in Boston with the firm of Silas Peirce and Company, dealers in West India goods and groceries. For thirty-five years he was connected with this firm, until his retirement as its senior member, in Dec., 1862. His filial devotion and love of home and family were marked characteristics. His later years were spent in generous service for others and although he held no public office, his life was still an active one. Whatever he attempted he carried out with great thoroughness to the end, and no work left his hand which did not bear the mark of his fine perception and unerring judgment. A man of scrupulous integrity, he won the esteem of all with whom he came in contact. A keen judge of men and of affairs, his counsels were widely sought and highly valued, and he filled with exceptional fidelity many positions of trust.

At the age of sixteen he left home to accept a position as clerk in a firm of grocers in Boston, and in a few years had so thoroughly mastered the business that he was enabled to open a wholesale establishment, and the firm of Cushing and Clapp became well known among Boston's mercantile houses. In 1863, on the retirement of his elder brother, Hayward, from the firm of Silas Peirce and Co., (founded in 1805 and still existing, 1905) he accepted the place as senior partner of that firm. At the close of 1871, he resigned this position and retired from active business life. He still retained, however, his interest in affairs, as he was the trustee of several large estates, which he managed with the same business ability which he had shown in mercantile life. He was distinguished for his well balanced judgment and keen intellectual interests. Never bound by conventional opinions his independence of thought was a marked characteristic. He became a warm adherent of Theodore Parker, and attended his services in West Roxbury when every Boston pulpit was closed to him. He was also an earnest advocate for the abolition of slavery in the early years before the Civil War. With a memory of remarkable accuracy, combined with a natural love for the best reading, his life was a noteworthy example of the results of continual self-culture. He had a deep love of nature and reverence for her laws, and was much devoted to his early country home.

of the United States, and in 1872, was one of the Counsel for the United States at the Geneva Conference for the settlement of the Alabama claims.

‘‘ In the death of Mr. Cushing, not only his native state, but the nation will feel the loss of a man who for more than half a century has been distinguished for his learning and eloquence as a lawyer and judge, as a legislator and diplomatist and as a man of letters, contributing largely, by state papers and contributions to various periodicals, to the literature of his time. He was also noted for his conversational and forensic talents, and for his knowledge of foreign languages. Probably no other man that ever held office in this country, with the exception of John Quincy Adams, ever brought so much real knowledge to the transaction of business, while his versatility and readiness were equal to his attainments.’’

"Lieut. Howard B. Cushing was about 5 feet 7 inches in height, spare, sinewy, active as a cat; slightly stoop-shouldered, sandy complexioned, keen grey or bluish grey eyes, which looked you through when he spoke, and gave a slight hint of the determination, coolness and energy which had made his name famous all over the southwestern border.***

"On the 5th day of May, 1871, Lieut. Howard B. Cushing, 3rd Cavalry, with several civilians and 3 soldiers, was killed by the Chiricahua Apaches, under their famous chief 'Cocheis', at the Bear Springs, in the Whetstone Mountains, about 35 miles from Tucson, and about the same distance to the east of the old Camp Crittenden. Cushing's whole force numbered 22 men, the larger part of whom were led into an ambushade. * * * The fight was a desperate one and fought with courage and great skill on both sides.

Our forces were surrounded before a shot had been fired, and it was while Cushing was endeavoring to lead his men back that he received the wounds which killed him. (The survivors were obliged to retreat leaving dead and wounded).***

“ Inside of 48 hours there were three troops of cavalry en route to Chittenden, and in pursuit of the Apaches, but no good could be effected. * * * *

“ When the combined forces arrived at the Bear Springs, there was to be seen every evidence of a most bloody struggle. The bodies of Lieut. Cushing and comrades lay where they had fallen, stripped of clothing, which the Apaches always carried off from their victims.

“ * * * Of the distinguished services rendered to Arizona by Lieut. Cushing, a book might well be written. It is not intended to disparage anybody when I say that he had performed herculean and more notable work, perhaps, than had been performed by any other officer of corresponding rank before or since.”

The citizens of Tucson have erected a monument to Lieut. Cushing's memory.

LIEUT.-COLONEL ALONZO H. CUSHING, Killed at Gettysburg.

Aug., 1862, being engaged in the siege of Yorktown, 5 April to 4 May, 1862,—and Seven Days' Operations before Richmond, 26 June, to 2 July, 1862; in the Maryland Campaign as Assist. Top. Engineer at the head-quarters of the Army of the Potomac, Sept. to Nov., 1862; in the Rappahannock Campaign as Assist. Top. Engineer, Dec., 1862, to to June, 1863; in the Pennsylvania Campaign (Army of the Potomac), June, July, 1863, being engaged in skirmish near Thoroughfare Gap, 25 June, 1863,—and Battle of Gettysburg, 2-3 July, 1863. He fell at Gettysburg, 3 July, 1863, in command of Battery A., 4th U. S. Artillery, receiving the brunt of Pickett's terrific charge on the third day. The carnage was so great that he was the last man at the last gun. "He was twice severely wounded before the last death shot struck him, and though urged to leave the gun against which he leaned with shattered arm and thigh, he refused to go, and fought with such desperate resolution that when a shot through the brain laid him lifeless at his post, with dead comrades around him and dead adversaries in front of him, his work of defense had accomplished its object and the tide of battle had been turned towards victory for the Union."

He was brevetted Lieut.-Colonel for conspicuous bravery. Was buried at West Point, N. Y.

where the grandfather (Judge Zattu Cushing) and other members of the Cushing family resided. He attended an excellent Academy, until, at the age of fourteen, he received the appointment of Cadet Midshipman at the Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., 25 Sept., 1857. Resigned 23 March, 1861, and was re-appointed Acting Master's Mate, 1861. Lieutenant, 16 July, 1862. Lieut. Commander, 27 Oct., 1864. Commander, 31 Jan., 1872.

There was not a year during the American Civil War that Lieut. Cushing did not distinguish himself by some perilous adventure. He commanded a ship at nineteen years of age and captured the first prize of the war, the "Delaware Farmer". On the 23 Nov., 1862, he was ordered in the steamer "Ellis" to capture Jacksonville and destroy the salt works in New River Inlet. After performing this duty successfully the "Ellis" got aground, Lieut. Cushing fired her and escaped in a small boat, receiving special commendation for his coolness, courage, and conduct in this affair. His most famous exploit was the destruction of the rebel ram "Albemarle", 27 Oct. 1864.

The following account of this affair is taken from Harper's Weekly Magazine, 19 Nov., 1864.

"The rebel ram "Albemarle" was one of the most formidable vessels which the Confederate navy ever floated. It played a conspicuous part in the capture of Plymouth last spring and on that occasion sank the Southfield. She attacked the Miami also, and a shot from the latter, striking the iron walls of the ram, rebounded and killed Capt. Flusser of the Miami, who was an intimate friend of Lieut. Cushing. It is said that for this reason Lieut. Cushing vowed vengeance against the Albemarle.

"As early as last June, Lieut. Cushing, then commanding the Monticello, submitted to the Admiral (Lee) a plan for the destruction of the Albemarle. The plan was approved and the Lieutenant withdrawn to perform this special service.

“After the conception of his plan, Lieut. Cushing came to New York and applied to one of the new steam-packets a torpedo arrangement and returned to the sound.

“The Albemarle had been lying at Plymouth for some weeks previous to its destruction. A mile below the town, on the wreck of the Southfield, a rebel picket was stationed. On the night of Oct. 27, Cushing, with a company of thirteen men, proceeded up the Roanoke River toward Plymouth. The distance from the mouth of the river to the ram was 8 miles. The picket above mentioned was passed without alarm, and the Albemarle was discovered lying fast to the wharf ‘with logs around her about 30 feet from her side’. As the party approached the rebels opened fire from the shore, which was returned by the steam launch. The approach was made in the form of a circle and with bows on, and when the logs were struck they were driven in some feet, the bows of the launch resting on them. ‘The torpedo-boom was then lowered,’ says Lieut. Cushing, ‘and by a vigorous pull, I succeeded in driving the torpedo under the overhang and exploding it at the same time that the Albemarle’s gun was fired. A shot seemed to go crashing through my boat, and a dense mass of water rushed in from the torpedo, filling the launch and completely disabling her. The enemy then continued his fire at fifteen feet range, and demanded our surrender, which I twice refused, ordering the men to save themselves, and removing my overcoat and shoes. Springing into the river. I swam, with others, into the middle of the stream, the rebels failing to hit us.’ Cushing’s escape was so precipitate that he was not able to report the destruction of the ram from his own observation, but formed his judgment from a conversation which he heard while concealed in the marshes close to the enemy’s fort, and from the report of a negro whom he sent into town for information. He had become exhausted in swimming, and had taken shelter in the immediate vicinity of the enemy. He was picked up by the "Valley City" on the night of the 30th, having made his way to that vessel in a skiff captured from an enemy's picket."

Five times he was publicly thanked by the Navy Department, and for the Albemarle affair received the "Thanks of Congress", the highest honor the Government could pay. He commanded the steamer "Maumee", Asiatic Squadron, 1868-9. He was the youngest man of his rank in the navy, but the hardships of the service, especially the two years' work in the blockading service,—before he was a man grown—was too great a strain on his delicate nervous organization, and was the cause of his death at the age of thirty-two years.

He extended his investigations to the ancient fortifications, burial grounds and camp sites of Madison and Onondaga Counties. He entered Cornell University in 1875, but devoted his time to assisting Dr. Charles Rau in preparing the Indian collections of the National Museum for the Centennial Exposition and was Curator of the entire collection throughout the Exhibition, after which he became Curator of the Ethnological Department of the National Museum in Washington, D. C. In 1879, he joined Maj. J. W. Powell, U.S.A., in his expedition to New Mexico, as Assistant of the United States Bureau of Ethnology of the Smithsonian Institute. Mr. Cushing, at his own request, remained with the Zuni Indians, adopting their dress, customs and habits, and in this way, for three years studied their history and language. In his second year's sojourn, he was formally adopted by the tribe and initiated with the sacred "Priesthood of the Bow." In 1882, he escorted a party of six Zunis to the Atlantic Ocean or "Ocean of Sunrise", to carry its waters to their temple in the Pueblos. Two of the natives remained with him in Washington during the summer and aided him in preparing his contribution to the Bureau of Ethnology on Zuni Fetiches. He returned to his Indian friends in 1882. Failing health obliged him to return to the East, and in 1884, accompanied by three Indians to aid him in the preparation of a Dictionary and Grammar of the Zuni language, and in translating myth stories, songs and rituals, he settled in Washington. From 1886 to 1888, Mr. Cushing organized and conducted archeologic research in the Salado and Gila Valleys in Arizona, in charge of the
